

Return to a quasi normality

Wednesdays government briefing brought with it a glimmer of hope to life returning to normality with the news of the easing of the current Covid-19 restrictions.

The pandemic situation in Luxembourg has become manageable over the past few weeks and with the number of vaccinations increasing each day the government has announced a reduction of the anti-covid measures in place. As from the 16th of May, the current restrictions will be reduced such as households can host up to 4 persons and restaurant will be able to serve indoor as long as a negative covid-19 result is presented by means of 3 possible tests.

The curfew, although it remains in place will now be pushed out to midnight and a recent study by the University of Oxford revealed in fact having a curfew in place is more effective than closing schools.

Although we cannot let ourselves become complacent, the easing of the restrictions is a step in the right direction we have all been waiting for.
