Luxembourg museums open their doors this weekend

For anyone keen to dive deep into the culture, art and history of Luxembourg, the weekend of Saturday 20 May and Sunday 21 May 2023 presents a fantastic opportunity to visit 37 national museums free of charge.

The Luxembourg Museum Days are celebrated as part of the 46th International Museum Day, an initiative which dates back to 1977. The theme of this year's Museum Days is the role of museums as key contributors to the well-being and to the sustainable development of local communities.

The Museum Days present a diverse array of permanent and temporary exhibitions, workshops, activities, and guided tours, providing visitors with an immersive experience into the vibrant art and culture scene of Luxembourg. Whether you choose to indulge in the artistic marvels of Mudam or discover the captivating heritage of Victor Hugo, this year's program offers an inspiring glimpse into the rich culture and heritage of Luxembourg.
